Based on an independent study of 367 communities across the United States by the Kosmont-Rose Institute, cost ratings were developed in order to compare difference communities based on business taxes, telephone taxes, sales taxes, property taxes, electric taxes, and state income taxes.

Santa Clarita is ranked as Low Cost ($$) compared to the Cities of Los Angeles and Pasadena which are both ranked as Very High Cost ($$$$). Out of 71 cities in Los Angeles County surveyed, Santa Clarita is one of the 10 lowest cost cites.

The City of Santa Clarita is the 4th largest city (including unincorporated areas) in Los Angeles, is one of 5 cities without a business license fee requirement, and ranks as the 25th highest property tax ranking in the County of Los Angeles.

FILM INDUSTRY

Over the past 10 years, retail sales in Santa Clarita have increased from $1.43 billion in 2000 to $1.91 billion in 2010. Sales peaked in 2006, prior to the recession, at $2.40 billion and have exceeded sales of the comparison markets until 2009 when sales became comparable to those of Burbank and Glendale and exceeded sales in Lancaster and Palmdale.

Source: California Retail Survey, 2011

One of the top 25 markets with a rank of 24 out of 482 cities in California for sales and the 19th highest per capita income level, Santa Clarita is on par with major shopping cities such as Glendale, home to Americana on Branch and the Glendale Galleria, and Pasadena, home to Paseo Colorado, Lake Avenue shopping district, and Old Town Pasadena, in terms of both retail dollars spent and number of retail stores in the communities.

The number of filming days in 2010 decreased 9% to 785 days from 2009 following a 5% increase from the previous year. Additionally, filming in Santa Clarita contributed $18.14 million to the local economy in 2010, down 19% from $22.27 million in 2009.

Source: City of Santa Clarita Film Office, 2011

The number of permits issued has increased from 2006. In 2010, 319 film permits were issued compared to 301 in 2006.

Source: City of Santa Clarita Film Office, 2011

In 2010, a total of $18.14 million was spent in the City of Santa Clarita from filming activity that occurred. In fact, the film economic impact was greater during the second half of 2010 which accounted for 59% of the impact compared to the first half that accounted for 41% of the economic impact.

VACANCY RATES

Office, retail and industrial vacancy rates remain higher than vacancy rates in 2008 in the City of Santa Clarita. Office vacancy rates reached 20.0% in the First Quarter of 2011 while industrial and retail vacancy rates reached 6.2% and 7.6%, respectively. The higher office vacancy rates can be attributed to the weakened economy and new office inventory in the marketplace not yet absorbed..

Downtown Newhall Specific Plan

The Specific Plan consists of a 20-block downtown served by Metro link commuter rail, a commercial corridor in downtown, two flanking neighborhoods, and an industrial district. Upon build out, the Specific Plan will include up to 1,092 new residential units and nearly 1-million square feet of new commercial space. A portion of this growth will be attributed to new development, while some will also include revitalization of existing buildings.

SANTA CLARITA UPDATES

Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone Receives Final Approval and is Now Accepting Vouchers for Expanded Zone Areas Posted Date: 4/9/2012 4:15 PM

The City of Santa Clarita, Los Angeles County, and the Santa Clarita Valley Economic Development Corporation announced today that the California Department of Housing and Community Development has approved all details of the new Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone designation, which means businesses in the expanded zone area may now begin processing vouchers for qualified employees and taking advantage of the tax savings available through the program.

The Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone benefits are retroactive to January 1, 2011 with benefits continuing through January 1, 2026. Businesses in the expanded areas are now able to process vouchers and enjoy tax benefits of the Enterprise Zone program.

“This is truly a great day for the Santa Clarita Valley business community,” commented City of Santa Clarita Mayor Laurie Ender. “We know the Enterprise Zone is the area’s leading business attraction and retention tool and now even more companies can begin saving money and reinvesting in their businesses.”

The Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone encompasses 14,440 acres of commercial and industrial land in the City of Santa Clarita and unincorporated areas of the Santa Clarita Valley, and includes the Commerce Center, Six Flags Magic Mountain, and the new Disney/ABC Studios at the Ranch. "The final designation of the Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone marks the beginning of a strategic opportunity to create jobs and strengthen the Valley's reputation as a dynamic community to grow a business," said Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich. "Implementing an aggressive targeted marketing plan will attract new businesses, jobs and investments in the Santa Clarita Valley."

Since 2007, the Enterprise Zone program has helped 345 Santa Clarita businesses save an estimated $199 million on their state taxes, in addition to creating more than 976 new jobs in the community.

“The expanded Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone gives our community a competitive advantage. The Enterprise Zone has been and will continue to be a significant tool in attracting premier businesses to the Santa Clarita Valley,” said Jonas Peterson, President/CEO of the Santa Clarita Valley Economic Development Corporation. “We look forward to partnering with the City and Los Angeles County to share information about the program, its benefits, and successes to engage more local businesses and attract regional and national companies looking to relocate.”

In 2010, the City of Santa Clarita, Los Angeles County, and the Santa Clarita Valley Economic Development Corporation collaborated on an application to the state for an expanded, replacement zone, which would allow even more companies in the Santa Clarita Valley to take advantage of the tax incentive program. The replacement zone received preliminary approval in 2011, but today’s final designation means businesses in the newly-expanded areas can now submit vouchers for hiring tax credits, in addition to taking advantage of other Enterprise Zone-specific savings incentives. For more information about the expanded Enterprise Zone designation or for a map detailing the Santa Clarita Valley Enterprise Zone boundaries, please visit SCVEnterpriseZone.com or call the City’s Economic Development Division at (661) 255-4347.
